FROM US TO YOU

Make a Statement

STEVEN GOLDFARB

DEAR FRIENDS: We all make a statement every day as we tell the world who we are. Whether it's what you wear, how you carry yourself or a personal credo, the best statements play a role in setting a course for how you live your life and act as a guide in helping to achieve the goals you have set for yourself. Here at the jewelry store, we are proud to assist you in setting and attaining your goals, and to celebrate once they have been achieved.

The Goldfarb statement this year is: gratitude. We are privileged to be a part of your lives when you are looking ahead, celebrating, surprising and proposing. We think of our clients as members of our extended family, and we are committed to bringing you the very best service, quality and value.

In this past year, we have made another statement with our wondrous selection of jewelry, watches and gifts, both in our store and in the pages of this magazine. We completed the store's remodel to showcase these treasures in spectacular fashion, and in addition to new collections, we have excelled in guiding our clients in redesigning their cherished (yet perhaps dated) jewelry into something original and exciting.

In each issue of Bejeweled, we strive to showcase beautiful items to help you ring in an upcoming festivity, be it a wedding, anniversary, birthday or holiday. We introduce new products we know you'll love, along with jewelry trends and fashion spreads to inspire you. We showcase style-forward daytime jewelry and glittering evening statement pieces; timepieces both sporty and elegant; fun gift items; as well as Northwest people and places we find truly special. The themes we focus on are ones that define us: optimism, happiness, confidence and appreciation.

Everyone here at Alvin Goldfarb Jeweler is ready to make your experience with us a fun and enjoyable one. In the meantime, we look forward to seeing you in our store to assist you in making a statement.

Warm regards,

STEVEN

FLASHBACK

Current psychology proposes that the success of a marriage can be indicated by how fondly the couple recounts important events in their relationship: how they met, got engaged, their wedding day. The fact that Alvin and his wife Jackie both report that their 1957 wedding was one of the happiest days of their lives most definitely helps to prove that theory. After being set up by mutual friends and a six-month engagement, the two were married on October 6th by Rabbi Raphael Levine, a beloved community figure who went on to host a popular television series on KOMO called Challenge. A reception in the Georgian Room of the then Olympic Hotel (now the Fairmont Olympic) followed, a tradition all of their married children have continued. Another secret to their 57 year success story is this piece of advice: "Treat each other as you would like to be treated, with great love, kindness and respect."

All you need is love

Ravishing Ruby

Long esteemed for its fiery scarlet hue, the ruby has a distinguished and storied history, and for centuries has been called the king of gemstones. Once thought to contain an internal flame that could not be extinguished, the ruby is a symbol of everlasting love and is often given as a gift for a 40th wedding anniversary. The stone is thought to protect the wearer; ward off bad dreams when placed under a sleeper's pillow; and be imbued with the power of fertility, health, happiness and the blessing of a long life. Large, flawless, transparent rubies are extremely rare and exceed all other gems in value—with the exception of deeply colored diamonds—often breaking auction records. ■ The mythology surrounding the ruby was an inspiration to designer Roberto Coin, who in 1996 started placing a small ruby on the inside of every piece of his jewelry as his signature, so that the stone is in direct contact with the skin of the wearer “as a secret gift of good wishes.” ■

Honorable Mission

Swiss watchmaker Breitling has been producing fine, precision timepieces since 1884, when company founder Léon Breitling focused his inventive mind on developing chronographs—a watch that combines a stopwatch with a display watch—for industries such as sports, aviation and science, which require to-the-second accuracy.

One hundred and thirty years later, Breitling is still as focused on innovation in the realm of chronography as it was in the early years. In the 1930s, a Breitling was the timepiece of choice for many aviation pioneers, including members of the Royal Air Force who relied on Breitling in-flight instruments during World War II. In 1962, it was a Breitling Navitimer (the world's oldest mechanical chronograph still in production) that accompanied Aurora 7 astronaut Scott Carpenter as he orbited Earth.

That dedication to aviation—and a cult status among pilots—led Breitling to partner with the Honor Flight Network (honor-flight.org), a nonprofit organization that enables WWII veterans to visit the Washington, D.C., memorial dedicated to their service, free of charge, as a token of thanks. In 2014, Breitling created a limited-edition collection of 56 timepieces, one for each state in the United States, its territories and Washington, D.C., with a portion of the proceeds dedicated to Honor Flight. Each watch, based on the iconic Navitimer 01 watch, features the Honor Flight logo on the dial, and the words “Honor Flight—One Last Mission,” along with an illustration of a wreath and bracket, engraved on the case back.

To date, Breitling has donated $150,000 to Honor Flight, making it possible for nearly 300 veterans to visit the memorial. Alvin Goldfarb Jeweler, the official retailer of the only Washington state Honor Flight timepiece, was honored by this opportunity to salute members of The Greatest Generation who fought for our freedom during the Second World War. ■

WOUND UP

Aficionados of fine timepieces know that in order to keep their self-winding timepieces in good working order, what happens to it off the wrist is equally as important as what happens on the wrist. In order to keep their piece in “tick-top” shape, those in the know stash their collection in a watch winder. When a watch is on the wrist, the motion of the body is enough to keep it wound; left idle for a few days and the watch's rotor stops spinning, slowing the mainspring. Rather than having the wearer set the time and date by hand, this discreet device has one purpose: to rotate a watch just enough to keep the mechanisms working, freeing up the wearer to grab it and go. The fact that watch winders act as a lovely display case and allows easy access for a quick change from one watch to another for different activities throughout the day is a bonus. Watch winders range from $150 to as much as $42,500 (complete with biometric lock), with enough room for one watch or as many as 30, keeping all your timepieces running like, well, clockwork.

CHERISHED BUT OUTDATED JEWELRY GETS A STUNNING UPDATE AND A SECOND CHANCE TO SHINE

Jewelry, like clothing, is subject to the whims of styles and trends. What was considered chic and modern even a decade ago can easily look dated today. But the passing of the years in no way diminishes the sentimental value a cherished piece of jewelry can hold. Rather than burying those old pieces in your jewelry box, breathe new life into them with a brand-new look. The artisans at Goldfarb will work with you to update, re-create or completely transform your jewelry into refreshed pieces you'll wear with pride for years to come. ■

Behind the Birthstone

Each month of the year gets its own birthstone, and whether you love yours or covet another's, the history of each stone gives the wearer a deeper connection to the stone and its meaning. For this chart, we've chosen the stones from the list created by the National Association of Jewelers in 1912 with the more recent addition of tanzanite as December's stone. ■

JANUARY GARNET

The name of this deep red stone comes from granatum, the Latin word for seed, for its resemblance to the jewel-toned pomegranate. Ancient Egyptians used inlaid garnets in their jewelry to attract health and cheerfulness.

FEBRUARY AMETHYST

This vibrant purple stone has quite the storied past and was believed to have been worn by Saint Valentine. During the Middle Ages, it was widely considered to be the stone of royalty, romance and chivalry.

MAY EMERALD

These brilliant green stones have been mined in Egypt since 1500 B.C. The Incas placed a high value on them, believing that they were the daughters of Esmeralda, the goddess of Peru and the Roman emperors would gaze through emeralds on bright days to soothe their eyes.

JUNE PEARL

Reputed to be a favorite of Cleopatra, pearls have been used to restore purity to the wearer, and are still powdered and consumed in China for stomach ailments.

SEPTEMBER SAPPHIRE

For centuries, the sapphire has been associated with royalty and is the stone in Princess Diana's—now Princess Kate's—engagement ring. The gemstone is traditionally thought to symbolize truth, sincerity and faithfulness.

OCTOBER OPAL

Thanks to the glints of color from the entire spectrum, the opal is believed to possess the virtue of every gemstone. Queen Victoria of England often gave it as a gift, and many considered it a symbol of fidelity, purity and truth.

AQUAMARINE

Not surprisingly, the Romans and Greeks used the clear blue aquamarine to protect sailors against shipwreck. Mystics have long gazed into crystal balls cut from the stone to predict the future and reawaken lost love.

APRIL DIAMOND

Diamonds have always been treasured for their power, clarity and strength. Alexander the Great brought the first diamonds to Europe from India in 327 B.C.; Queen Elizabeth I was said to have worn one to ward off the plague; and Napoleon wore the 137-carat, plum-size Regent diamond in the hilt of his sword.

JULY RUBY

The ruby has a history that is as passionate as the stone is red. Ancient Burmese warriors wore rubies underneath their skin to make them invincible in battle, and in the Middle Ages, ruby rings were often given as engagement rings to signify undying devotion.

AUGUST PERIDOT

Often used as a talisman, the bright green peridot has been used since 1500 B.C. for ornament. When set in gold, this mystical stone was thought to protect the wearer from evil spirits.

DECEMBER TANZANITE

A relative newcomer to the list of birthstones, the brilliant blue or purple tanzanite, which derives its name from the country of Tanzania, the only place on the planet where the stone is found, was first mined in the 1960s and quickly became prized for its vivid color, high clarity and durability.

The Circle of Life

First and foremost, Goldfarb Jewelers is a family business. Started by Alvin and now run by his son Steven, the store displays a sense of care that customers can feel. There's a genuine commitment to truly celebrating special occasions that guides everything at AGJ. When Steven's mom, Jackie, celebrated an important birthday, the family collaborated on a group gift specifically chosen so that they would always be with her. Family photos (including pups!) were framed beautifully in a Gate charm bracelet. So now Jackie really does wear her heart on her sleeve.

Strength in Numbers

GATHER A GROUP OF FRIENDS AND LOVED ONES TO GIVE A GIFT THAT IS GREATER THAN THE SUM OF ITS PARTS

There is strength in numbers, both with creativity and buying power, so when searching for a perfect gift for that special someone, rather than going it alone, consider investing in a group gift that is greater than the sum of its parts. By pooling your resources, you can purchase a larger, thoughtfully chosen, heirloom-quality piece that you can proudly present to the person of honor. * One store that specializes in offering group gift service is Goldfarb Jeweler, where the staff makes choosing the gift and organizing the details an absolute breeze. After a comfortable per-person dollar amount is chosen by the group (usually between $35 and $100), an expert at Goldfarb will suggest several options, taking into consideration the budget, event and most important, the recipient's personal style. Once the gift is chosen, the Goldfarb team will handle gathering the funds from all the participants, and wrapping the gift—leaving you with time to focus on enjoying the party. ■

LOVE Is All You Need

TWO COUPLES,
ONE JUST BEGINNING THEIR MARRIAGE AND THE OTHER
WELL INTO THEIR FIFTH
DECADE OF WEDDED BLISS, SHARE THE BEST PIECE OF ADVICE THEY'VE EVER RECEIVED

John and Dottie Fritz MARRIED: MARCH 24TH, 1956 AT HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE IN NOVATO, CALIFORNIA

LOVE STORY: "It was 1955, and I got a job in the secretary general's office at Hamilton Air Force Base," Dottie explains. "I also had a part-time job as a hostess at the officers' club. John and his roommate walked in one night, and his roommate took a liking to me, but it was John that I noticed." After the roommate got the message that she wasn't interested, John asked her out and the two were married six months after that. John's career has taken him, Dottie and their two sons from test piloting airplanes for GE in Southern California to NASA's astronaut program (where John was shortlisted for Project Gemini in 1962) to Ohio, Seattle and Australia. The couple retired in 1992 in Kent, Washington, where they currently enjoy a life filled with their mutual love of golfing. ■

BEST PIECE OF ADVICE:

"A friend of ours gave us a tapestry that hangs in our house that sums it up nicely," says John. "It says: A happy marriage is a union of two forgivers."

Kyle and Christina Komen

MARRIED: AUGUST 16TH, 2014 IN WESTLAKE VILLAGE, CALIFORNIA

LOVE STORY: Kyle and Christina were neighbors during their sophomore year at Loyola Marymount, eventually getting to know each other during a late-night party. “Christina mentioned a Taylor Swift concert the next night that she wanted to go to,” Kyle recalls. “I impulsively said we should all go, but no one else agreed. Having made a big thing of it, I told her I’d still go if she wanted. We found some nosebleed tickets and bought them online on a whim. The next morning I woke up and was shocked to remember I bought tickets to a concert with a girl I barely knew! While sitting in LA traffic on the way there and back, we ended up talking all night long—even showing up late to the concert because we were chatting in the parking lot so long. After that night, I kept finding reasons to hang out with her. We talked about everything and were close friends for quite a while before we finally started dating.” ■

BEST PIECE OF ADVICE:

“The best advice we have learned so far is that we are always going to have to work on ‘us,’ and to put that above all things. After dating for four years, we’ve learned that you get out of it what you put in. We know that it’s not always going to be easy, but it will always be worth the effort. We are each other’s best friend, and will always have each other’s back. And we’re willing to put in the energy to keep it that way!”

INSPIRED BY VETERANS, THE FOUNDER OF PEACETAGS GIVES BACK IN A BIG WAY

PeaceTags Inc. was launched in 2007 by Fredda Goldfarb as a way to support veterans of all wars, especially those returning from combat in the Middle East. One hundred percent of the proceeds from the silver dog tags adorned with inspiring quotes from peacemakers, religious leaders and other creative thinkers goes toward veteran support organizations and peacemaking nonprofits, including Fisher House Foundation, Treacy-Levine Center, Wounded Warrior Project and Paralyzed Veterans of America. Tens of thousands of dollars have been donated to worthy causes, and awareness has been created for their missions through simply wearing a beautiful necklace.

For the last seven years, PeaceTags has thrived thanks to the dedication of an all-volunteer team that runs the little company. Throughout those years, Alvin Goldfarb Jeweler has provided PeaceTags with a warm and welcoming home base and a stable infrastructure for shipping the tags worldwide.

In 2007, Fredda was contacted by Capt. Patty France, a behavioral health officer in the U.S. Army, who came across PeaceTags online and fell in love with them. The two struck up a friendship and became pen pals while Patty was deployed in Iraq. Patty was sent to Iraq a second time in 2011 for Operation New Dawn, during which time she was provided with art supplies for the soldiers in her charge to help relieve stress. During that time, Patty created a painting of a gigantic PeaceTag with an upside-down peace sign behind it, which she sent to Fredda as a gift. "The painting provided the hope of peace," she explains, and included a quote by Indian politician Vijaya Lakshmi Nehru Pandit, "The more we sweat in peace, the less we bleed in war."

Fast-forward to 2014, and with Patty now safely retired stateside and working as a contractor for the U.S. Air Force, the two friends have come together on the Vet Heart Art Center (VHAC), a project intent on helping other vets heal from PTSD through art. With the help of PeaceTags, which provided start-up funds, Patty is offering workshops for veterans to heal by exploring the arts. Since Patty is an artist, a vet and a mental health professional, she understands the needs of veterans to have a safe place to express the emotions connected to their experience with combat. VHAC sponsored its first workshop on September 21, the International Day of Peace. "There is something about bringing veterans together," says Patty, "it's an energy that is like no other."

"This is the reason I am so passionate about PeaceTags and the mission of caring about these service people," says Fredda. "Their journey continues and is very challenging, even when they are lucky enough to come home." PeaceTags has released a new tag for the 2014 holiday season with the quote from Vijaya Lakshmi Nehru Pandit in support of Patty and all the hard work and time she has dedicated to easing the suffering of her fellow soldiers and service members. The dedication and passion she has for helping to soothe the invisible mental and emotional scars so many of them carry with them is a reminder of the generosity of the human spirit. To contact the Vet Heart Art Center, visit Facebook and search "Vet Heart Art Center." ■

STEVEN GOLDFARB TACKLES YOUR MOST QUIZZICAL JEWELRY DILEMMAS

I have several great timepieces. What is the best way to store and care for my watches when I am wearing another?

I always recommend keeping your watches on a watch winder. First, the watch will remain on time and ready to put on at a moment's notice. Second, it is better for a watch to run rather than stop for long periods of time. Lastly, with the right watch-winder they look great on display

How often should I have my jewelry cleaned and checked?

We love to see you, so please stop by as often as you desire to have your jewelry cleaned—every day if you like! If it will allow you to enjoy it more, we're happy to accommodate. After all, it was shiny and clean when you first chose your piece. At the very least, you should have your jewelry cleaned and checked—something we do each time you come in—every six months. It will always look its best, and any loose gems, broken prongs or signs of wear can be cured right away before any problems arise.

Can I mix yellow gold and white metals (platinum, white gold and silver)?

Absolutely, you can mix different colored metals whether in one piece, like a yellow and white necklace, or stacked, like five different bracelets. When you think about it, lots of jewelry already has more than one hue: colored gemstones, yellow rings with white diamonds or white pearls with a gold clasp. You don't have to worry—a gorgeous piece of jewelry goes with everything.

WATCH WINDERS AND BOXES ARE A FANTASTIC WAY TO STORE, DISPLAY AND TRAVEL WITH YOUR WATCH COLLECTION

I am looking for a new piece of jewelry but want something special, meaningful and unique, yet at the same time, classic. How do I get all of this?

When it comes to fine jewelry, you want it to last a lifetime—not only in terms of condition, but of style as well. No one wants his or her engagement ring to look dated. At the same time, there are lots of ways to make jewelry special and particularly meaningful. We have many ideas here at the store, such as:

- * Have a private engraved message added discreetly and in your own handwriting (we can do this).
- * Add a small gemstone on the inside of a ring so only the two of you (and your jeweler, of course) know it is there.
- * Create something special that you can add to each year to commemorate an anniversary. This will create a history of your lives together. Or, come up with your own creative idea. We can do (almost) anything. ■

Since he was a boy, Los Angeles-based jeweler Robert Procop has loved exquisite gemstones. He bought and sold them to pay his way through college and eventually used them to create exceptional pieces coveted by celebrities and royalty alike. His love of fine stones is apparent in how elegantly he elevates each one, highlighting the natural color, shape and quality that make each gem rare and unique. Uncompromising quality, intricate workmanship, and specialty cutting and setting techniques have become Procop's signature.

Each new piece that he and his team create sparks anew his fascination with these precious gifts from the earth, whether they are 30.68-carat total weight rubies crafted into earrings or a 10.28-carat Padparadscha bubblegum pink sapphire mounted on a ring. His expertise in and extensive knowledge of gemstones has garnered him the esteemed position of editor-in-chief of the sixth editions of Famous Diamonds and Famous Colored Gems—seminal tomes for the jewelry industry due out in 2015 and 2016 respectively. And in 1999, as CEO of British luxury brand Asprey & Garrard, he saved the flailing company from bankruptcy.

One of the defining moments of any jeweler's career is his or her association with celebrities, and few can claim a creative collaboration with an A-list star, let alone a philanthropic partnership with one. Since 2011, Procop has worked with Angelina Jolie on a collection of fine jewelry that the two call Style of Jolie, which features timeless pieces inspired by Jolie's love of monochromatic color. In 2013, the two collaborated on unique creations inspired by Jolie's title role in Maleficent, including a large cushion-cut black spinel ring encircled in gold. Proceeds from Style of Jolie benefit Jolie's Education Partnership for Children of Conflict, which provides funding for international educational programs in conflict-ridden regions. On a personal note, Jolie's husband, Brad Pitt, worked with Procop for a year to design her engagement ring and the two were married in August of 2014 with rings created by Procop. Additionally, he is working closely with actress Brooke Shields on a highly anticipated collection that will benefit Los Angeles House of Ruth, a charity that supports battered and abused women and children, and for which he has raised funds to build 14 homeless shelters throughout the city. * Procop is as discerning with jewelers as he is about the stones he chooses. His association with Alvin Goldfarb Jeweler is a collaboration based upon a mutual love of beautiful jewelry and a mutual commitment to philanthropy and community service. "It is truly an honor working with such an esteemed team of fine jewelers," says Procop. "Goldfarb Jeweler is a fine company that has so much expertise and a great reputation throughout the jewelry industry." ■ groups are exceptionally fine and stand comparison with the finest things produced in the nineteenth century. For instance, the illustrations of frogs and other batrachians have their beauty, accuracy and vitality. The frog in Naturalis Rariorum (1758), showing frogs in roses, is beyond praise. No early zoological illustration is so brilliant and more carefully applied hand color. It is the same author's Insecten-Belustigung (1765) which is the most beautiful in its kind. The ship and coloring, Roessel von Rosenhof's work is the most beautiful of the early natural history. The vaunted productions of Thomas Martyn and his little

Martyn, who had been impressed by the beautiful shells collected during Captain Cook's voyages to the Pacific Ocean, purchased many of them from the ship's crews. Wishing to immortalise their beauty in an appropriate manner, he thought it probable that in the productions of his time all of whom had received their share of good taste would find it a common preceptor, and artists.' This was the first of the series which was based in London.

With a life of spartan simplicity he put to work on the great shell book of conchology. The plates dried up so fast that he eventually had to print them to the public. Although copies of the book are not uncommon, it is very rare for a copy to be seen with the complete complement of quality of the work varies from volumes and signed by Martyn.

WITH STEVEN GOLDFARB
DISTILLERY IN SODO ENJOYING
MADE WITH GLASS VODKA

HAYLEY YOUNG

Heart of Glass

THE VERY DAPPER IAN MACNEIL
COMBINES A LOVE OF DISTILLING
FINE VODKA WITH A STRONG SPIRIT OF PHILANTHROPY

Entrepreneur Ian MacNeil may split his time between Seattle and Dallas, where his wife, Laura, works as the executive vice president for Wells Fargo, but his soul lives in SoDo, inside the stylish, urban Glass vodka distillery. Just a stone's throw from Safeco Field, Glass is MacNeil's professional and personal passion, where he crafts the finely honed vodka from Washington wine grapes (yes, grapes rather than the traditional potato) that has won the label three international awards in the two years since the distillery released the first batch. Using wine grapes in the distillation process results in an "elegant nose, hints of wildflowers and light citrus notes," explains MacNeil, who suggests that its silky character is perfect for sipping and versatile enough for cocktails. Over the past two years, MacNeil has released three more vodkas distilled from wine grapes, one infused with the natural flavors of Kona coffee, another with honey from the Salish Lodge and a third with Sri Lankan cinnamon, in addition to grain-based Gridiron, the house vodka for El Gaucho restaurants and Chambers Bay Golf Course, home of the 2015 U.S. Open.

Yet as much as MacNeil waxes poetic about Glass vodka, his countenance swells as he describes his and his wife's considerable philanthropic efforts, via both donations of auction items and with their time, something the couple has in common with Steven and Fredda Goldfarb and Goldfarb Jeweler. The two became acquainted a few years ago through Seattle Dances!, a Plymouth Housing Group fundraiser, where they discovered their mutual commitment to philanthropy and similar sense of high style. In 2014, MacNeil came to Goldfarb Jeweler for help with a ring design for his wife. "After wearing the same ring for more than 22 years, Laura sadly lost her engagement ring. Steven helped me replace the stone—a traditional round brilliant-cut diamond—and presented it in a setting that highlights the quality of the stone," says MacNeil. "One of the reasons Steven and I get along so well is because we share a sense of design," he continues. "The foundation for the brand Glass Vodka is elegance in simplicity, and that is exactly what Steven achieved when he redesigned my wife's engagement ring, which is elegant in its simplicity!" Glass Distillery is open by appointment only and is available for private events. 1712 First Ave. S; 206.686.7210; glassdistillery.com ■

Make a Statement

Alvin Goldfarb Jeweler is proud to have the most knowledgeable employees, who stay ahead of the trends and styles in fine jewelry. They spend their days doing what they love, and that enthusiasm is apparent in their customer service. In this issue, we asked them to find a quotation that makes a statement about their personal credo and to share a piece of jewelry from the store that they think makes a statement to the world.

“LEARNING IS THE ONLY THING FOR YOU. LOOK WHAT A LOT OF THINGS THERE ARE TO LEARN.”
—T.H. White, The Once and Future King

I’m a jeweler, so obviously I’m quite partial to diamonds for an engagement ring. We have several, but my favorite is a 5-carat radiant-cut set in platinum. It will only seem too big the first time you try it on. It will shrink over time...I promise.

Katie

“I HAVEN’T BEEN EVERYWHERE, BUT IT IS ON MY LIST.” —Susan Sontag

Mikimoto has created an unbelievable strand of pearls. The layout of this strand is very unique. It fades from a dark gray transitioning to white, then to golden yellow. This is a new design concept for Mikimoto. I like that it is classic but with a modern twist.

Vicki

“UNTIL ONE HAS LOVED AN ANIMAL, A PART OF ONE’S SOUL REMAINS UNAWAKENED.” —Anatole France

I work with jewelry every day, but what caught my eye recently is a pair of sliced sapphire drop earrings. I love how the cut of the sapphire showcases its natural characteristics. From every angle, these sapphire earrings look stunning, due to the diamonds and sapphires encasing the center stones.

Alyssa

“HAPPINESS IS AN INSIDE JOB. DON’T ASSIGN ANYONE ELSE THAT MUCH POWER OVER YOUR LIFE.” —Mandy Hale

My favorite piece in the store is the 36mm rose gold day/date ‘Carousel’ watch. There is no question that this watch makes a statement. I love the combination of rose gold, diamonds and pink mother of pearl. The design of the dial is absolutely stunning! This will definitely be on my wish list!

"YOU CAN HAVE EVERYTHING IN LIFE THAT YOU WANT IF YOU WILL JUST HELP ENOUGH OTHER PEOPLE GET WHAT THEY WANT."
—Zig Ziglar

I fell in love with pearls the first time I saw Audrey Hepburn wear them in Breakfast at Tiffany's. Iconic women throughout history have always made a statement with pearls, Eleanor Roosevelt, Princess Di, Sarah Jessica Parker circa Sex and the City, to name a few. They are truly one of the most feminine, timeless, classic gems that a woman can wear.

"INSTEAD OF ALWAYS WAITING FOR A VACATION, SET UP A LIFE THAT YOU DON'T NEED TO ESCAPE FROM." —Unknown

Our 18K rose gold and sliced pink sapphire earrings are warm and wearable. I love the combination of modern design with an Art Deco influence.

"ALL THE BEAUTIFUL SENTIMENTS IN THE WORLD WEIGH LESS THAN A SINGLE LOVELY ACTION." —James Russell Lowell

These rose gold diamond hoops look great on everyone, especially me. The diamonds are set to each sparkle brilliantly. They definitely make a statement.

TO LEARN IS TO LIVE, TO STUDY IS TO GROW, AND GROWTH IS THE MEASUREMENT OF LIFE. —Manley P. Hall

I'm a huge fan of something big, luxurious, comfortable and classic but still understated. Our platinum eternity band with 8 carats of colorless Asscher-cut diamonds is exquisite, unique, and goes great with every outfit and everywhere I go.

"I'VE LEARNED THAT PEOPLE WILL FORGET WHAT YOU SAID, PEOPLE WILL FORGET WHAT YOU DID, BUT PEOPLE WILL NEVER FORGET HOW YOU MADE THEM FEEL." —Maya Angelou

One of my favorite pieces of jewelry in the store is an incredibly beautiful 20-carat oval cabochon-cut emerald and diamond ring, made of 18K yellow gold. The color of this emerald is stunning in every way and just screams important.

AN 11-WOMAN TEAM, LED BY WOODLAND PARK ZOO BOARD MEMBER, PATTI SAVOY, SETS THEIR SIGHTS ON FUNDRAISING FOR THE RETURN OF TIGERS TO SEATTLE'S ZOO

GROUP PORTRAIT: RYAN HAWK/WOODLAND PARK ZOO. STYLIST: ROSALINE HAMPTON. MALAYAN TIGER CAM PHOTOS: JACKSON THOMPSON. BRACELET: HAYLEY YOUNG

The statistics are astounding: In the last 100 years, 97 percent of the world's tiger population has been wiped out leaving fewer than 3,200 tigers in the wild and fewer than 500 in Malaysia. More than 93 percent of the tiger's territory has been lost, 40 percent in this decade. Zoos all over the world, including Seattle's Woodland Park Zoo, have made a concerted effort to work with leading global conservation organizations to protect the remaining tiger population. Woodland Park Zoo is working with the Malaysian government and Panthera to protect tigers from poachers, who prize the big cat's hide and bones. In May 2015 Woodland Park Zoo welcomes its first Malayan tigers to the new Bamboo Forest Reserve, a lush two-acre complex that replaces the last of the zoo's old exhibits.

This new immersive complex will give visitors a chance to see tigers up close and experience the sounds, smells and sights of an Asian tropical forest. It will focus on educating the public about the plight of tigers and what they can do to positively impact wildlife populations.

A new exhibit at the zoo, especially one this significant, requires a dedicated fundraising effort; one that community volunteer and Woodland Park Zoo board member Patti Savoy has made the focus of her tenure as a member of the zoo's Executive, Conservation and Education, and Development Steering committees. In order to make a strong statement about the plight of tigers, Savoy called on 11 of her best girlfriends, women who also share her strong commitment to volunteerism and philanthropic work. She asked them to serve as co-chairs for Jungle Party, the zoo's premier fundraising event on July 10, 2015, as well as spearhead a public awareness campaign in early 2015 to draw attention to the global plight of tigers and the return of tigers to Woodland Park Zoo. "These animals have no voice," says Patti, "so I will do everything I can to be their ambassador and share their story." ■

KIND WORDS AND SENTIMENTAL STORIES FROM OUR EXTENDED FAMILY. (THE PLEASURE HAS BEEN ALL OURS.)

“You have forever changed my view of professionalism. I am following your lead in my own work environment and am bringing the Goldfarb/Sara Bell ‘can do’ approach to my peers and customers.” —John P.

“I think about Goldfarb every day because I L-O-V-E my Rolex and I adore wearing it, and it has changed my life. No kidding, I sometimes pick it up from the counter at night and look adoringly at it.” —Nancy W.

“Steven, thanks again for the great relationship. Knowing you makes my wife very happy. As they say...happy wife, happy life.” —Jim G.

“Yet again, Shelly, you have outdone yourself. I absolutely love the beautiful necklace! And I was surprised, which is hard to do. :)” —Tianne B.

“My ring turned out AMAZING!! I Love it!!! As I wear my GORGEOUS pieces, I feel very special knowing the good care we received from all of you at AGJ.” —Michelle M.

“I had to write and thank you for the fine manner in which you handled the beautiful rings for both of us. Cheryl managed to have us both be surprised! We are happy that you are a part of our wonderful relationship. You are definitely a class act and we love it.” —Carolyn B.

“Just read the new edition of Bejeweled cover to cover. I swear the mag is getting better and better...love all the interesting articles and beautiful pictures! Great job!!!!” —Mari S.

“Thank you. Katie, you are the best! So knowledgeable, kind and dependable combined with great customer service and incredible jewelry. I really appreciate you.” —Heidi B.

“Thanks for introducing me to Mark. He was great. I ended up getting a limited-edition SuperOcean instead of the Colt 44. I will be getting a Tudor next year.” —Aaron V.

“Brandi, you and your staff have always provided great customer support and service. Developing friendships over the years just adds to the experience of visiting your store.” —Troy N.

“Many thanks. Jerry and your team were very helpful during the whole custom ring process, making it a very pleasurable experience.” —Max L.

“I am truly delighted both with the watch and the service from Kevin and Tiffany. Really amazing! Not only that, but we also all had a lot of fun. I will certainly always remember this extraordinary experience!” —Michael W.

“It is very clear to me why my family has been working with you for so long. You have a lifetime customer here.” —Chris B.

“I greatly appreciated you taking time out of your day to work with me. As a salesperson, relationships are of paramount importance, and you are fantastic at building them.” —Zak P.

“I must say you have done a fantastic job of putting a beautiful ring together. I will keep you in the loop, and it shouldn't be too long before it's around my beautiful bride-to-be's finger.” —Jordan A.

“Just wanted to let you know that my rings kept happily blinding me as I walked through the park, just as they should. Thank you very much.” —Tanya A.

“Thank you so much. The watch is beautiful. It was a great presentation at the surprise party. It was a nice day indeed made extra-special by the new timepiece.” —Adam C.

“It was an absolute blast to be back in the store and seeing everyone again. It was so nice that everyone remembered me. I do enjoy the staff.” —Jack C.

“Thanks so much for the necklace. The bracelet is to die for also! I appreciate your friendship!!” —Melissa G.
